

Booby trap explodes in Maputo

MIO News Rev. 29/9/85

A booby trapped transistor radio has exploded in Maputo, killing one person and wounding two others, the city police announced on 24 September. As with similar incidents in the past, involving apparently innocent objects such as pens or children's toys, which have been booby trapped, "this was undoubtedly an enemy action," declares the police statement. "It was an act of terrorism designed to hit innocent people and provoke panic."
