[Text] Lisbon, Feb 23 (AFP)—Guerrillas of the Mozambique National Resistance (Renamo) killed at least 13 villagers and wounded 25 others in two attacks against villages at the end of last week, the Portuguese news agency LUSA [LUSITANIA] reported Tuesday.

The killings took place in raids Friday at Vila Daiva in southern Mozambique and Saturday close to Mocumba in northeastern Zambezia Province, LUSA said, citing military sources.

It added that government forces had killed 15 rebels and wounded 18 during flushing-out operations in a number of provinces between February 11 and 19.
