

SOUTH AFRICA/MOZAMBIQUE: Security talks IOW 28/1/89

The joint Mozambique-South African security commission met again on January 25 at Pequenos' Limbobos, situated 40 km west of Maputo. The Mozambican delegation was headed by the commander of the Mozambican armed forces, Major General Tobias Dai, while the South African group was led by General Jocabus Liebenbeg. Last week, the Mozambican number two, Marcellino dos Santos, accused South Africa of having helped RENAMO rebels sabotage more than 1,000 electric pylons at the Cahora Bassa dam.

Meanwhile, on January 24, Norway announced that it is to give military aid to Mozambique. The aid will consist of communication equipment, vehicles, uniforms and various other supplies.
