

JOHANNESBURG.
— A SA consulting property development firm is embarking on a joint venture with a developer in Mozambique to build an up-market residential village in Maputo at a cost of $120m.

The SA company, Consulting Projects and Development International, and IDM of Mozambique are launching the concept of the prestigious village development to be called "Bairro Residencial das Mahotas" to potential buyers today.

The three year project is expected to involve the construction of 400 Mediterranean style homes in Maputo. The first homes would be available by the end of 1993.
