[Text] Mozambique's National Wages and Prices Commission has announced that it is raising the producer price for cashew nuts 62 percent. Cashew nut are one of the country's major export commodities. In the year 1988-89, producers of the crop will now receive the minimum of 165 meticals per kilogram. In the past year, the producer price was 107 meticals per kg of (?raw) cashew nuts. There are 580 meticals in (?$1).

Cashew nuts brought in more than $27 million in foreign exchange earnings in last year's exports.
