

Sabotage at Sofala sawmills (Text). The sawmills of Chiringoma district in Sofala achieved 60.7 per cent of their targets in the first half of this year as far as tree-felling and the production of timber were concerned. Depending on their own resources and the support of district structures, workers in these strategic production units were able to repair and operate three sawmill units which had been sabotaged by the armed gangsters. At present all the workers of the sawmills are undergoing political and military training for self-defence in order to prepare them for any attempt at aggression and intimidation by the armed bandits. According to yesterday's 'O Diario de Mocambique', party and Government structures in the district are working to ensure normal supplies of essential goods to all consumer co-operatives and shops serving sawmill workers.
