
Anti-bandit operations in Mozambique (Excerpts from item in armed forces' "Voice of Combat" programme) The FPLM's fight against armed gangsters is being accomplished with revolutionary impetus by our fighters on all battle fronts. . . . Wherever armed bandits, equipped by racist South Africa, are found, they are promptly pursued by our forces. . . . Our forces stationed in Chipudeji, Machave District, recently attacked and destroyed a small armed bandit base in Tuco-Tuco area. Despite our forces' reduced number, their mobility put the enemy to flight in disarray, leaving behind eight weapons, three bazooka rockets, eight grenades and the body of one bandit. Mopping-up operations . . . continue in other places thought to be the hide-outs of these criminals and destabilizers of our people's peace. (Maputo in Portuguese 0605 gmt 13 Mar 83)
