

MNR massacre 74

MAPUTO. — Bandits of the Mozambique National Resistance Movement have killed 74 people during recent attacks against innocent villagers in Inhambane province.

The newspaper the Noticias reported that the bandits, reeling under a relentless offensive by government troops, have resorted to killing and maiming women and old people, robbing peasants to survive and setting homes and public buildings alight. — Ziana-Tasa.