

(Excerpts from commentary) A grenade found in a trash can in Maputo exploded in the hands of innocent children who were playing. In Chimoio, an armed bandit who was killed was wearing our forces' uniform. . . The truth is that these acts are not only inter-related, but part of the same strategy and tactic. . . They are acts which are carried out often because of negligence and lack of vigilance on our part. The perpetration of such acts once again proves the importance of and need for vigilance. . . (Maputo home service in Portuguese 0605 gmt 20 Jul 86)