[Text] South Africa's MNR bandits have destroyed more than 200 schools in the southern province of Maputo in the past 5 years. This was revealed by the province's director for education and culture, Eduardo Nhamirre. Mr Nhamirre was speaking yesterday at a provincial educational conference. He said the bandits abducted educational workers, destroyed 214 primary schools and 1 secondary school.

Mr Nhamirre said as a result of bandit activities, Maputo Province now has only 129 primary schools and (?13) secondary schools.
