ONE person was killed and three others were seriously injured this week when a group of between 13 and 15 South African-backed MNR bandits attacked Chikororo Village in Chief Musikavanhu's area in Chisumbanje.

A police spokesman said the bandits, armed with AK rifles, machets and knobkerries, looted the village huts and stole 21 head of cattle.

Last Friday, two bandits stole property worth more than $970 from a villager in Chief Garahwa's area, also in Chisumbanje.

The police spokesman advised villagers living along the border to be extra vigilant against attacks by the bandits.

"Villagers should stop employing Mozambicans because most of them are informers of the bandits," said the spokesman.
