

Mozambican tribunal's fine on S African fishing boat skipper (ME/6952/ii) Maputo radio, on 13th February, said that because he had not resisted arrest by the Mozambican navy nor done anything to harm fishing, the Mozambican maritime tribunal had imposed "the small fine . . . equivalent to about 25,000 rand" in freely convertible currency on the captain-owner of the South African fishing boat who had been arrested on 8th February for violating Mozambique's territorial waters. The defendant had admitted the offence. '82