

S Africa asks Mozambique to help find missing researcher (Text) The South African government has asked the Mozambican government for assistance in tracing a researcher who has been missing in the Kosi Bay area of Natal for three days, and is thought to have wandered across the border into Mozambique and lost his way. In a statement released in Pretoria, the South African Department of Foreign Affairs said Mr Josephus Auchamp, a South African citizen attached to a rice cultivation research project of the International Development Corporation was missing since Sunday [26th October]. The department said the possibility existed that Mr Auchamp unknowingly crossed the Mozambican border and lost his way. (Johannesburg in English for abroad 0630 gmt 30 Oct 86)
