

Farmers give "poor response" to call to register Mozambican employees (Text) An official of the Department of Home Affairs has said at Nelspruit that so far there has been a poor response by Lowveld farmers to appeals to have their Mozambican workers registered. Organised agriculture in the area says about 4,600 of the estimated 8,000 workers have been registered at this stage. The official pointed out that workers in the employ of farmers before 7th October were allowed to be registered and that all registration should be dealt with by 28th November.
